Day of Champions Tournament

Marimont Wins Season and Finals

The March morning preliminaries saw Marimont Bears retake the lead that they briefly lost in February. Matching them win for win, Heart We Are Homeless moved up from fifth to just three Olympic bonus points short of third. The playoffs featured a remarkable run by OCS Take the Prize to move up from ninth to fifth, but in the end the season's top three teams quizzed into the Finals.

In the Finals, Owen Parker scored first for Marimont. Top quizzier Sophia Fike responded for Revealed with Fire, and did it again after Owen's second score. Cordelia Fike then got Fools for Christ on the board.

Curtis Parker scored to move Marimont into sole possession of the lead, but two jumps by Cordelia and one by Sophia resulted in a three-way tie at 60 points each going into question 13.

Owen won 13 to retake the lead for Marimont, and now each team's top quizzier was frozen. A Marimont error resulted in a Lake Pointe toss-up won by Cordelia to take a share of the lead. Going into question 15, it was still anyone's quiz to win.

A Chapter Only Reference question was announced, but Curtis, a memory specialist, was not deterred—he got a quick jump, gave the correct answer and grabbed victory for Marimont to cap a thrilling competition.

Chicago Tournament 2018

In 2017, DBQ was excluded from the Chicago Finals for the first time in years. This month, the three teams from the 2017 Finals were back and, as the playoffs progressed, it looked like they may well repeat last year's accomplishment.

In the morning preliminaries, DBQ looked strong, with Inclined to Dispute and We Know coming in second and third behind Berrien Mixed Nuts 1, the morning's only undefeated team. But a revised playoff structure started the afternoon off with quite a shake-up. Both Berrien 1 and We Know lost and were relegated to the double-elimination bracket. Berrien 2 (last year's champs) and QUACK moved up from their 6th and 4th positions respectively to join Inclined to Dispute in the triple-elimination bracket. From there, Berrien 2 and QUACK were the first two teams to quiz into the Finals. Meanwhile, DBQ's Imitate Me team was forging a spectacular run from 10th place up to 6th, finally being stopped by We Know.

The quiz for the last spot into the Finals finally saw the top three teams from the morning face each other—it promised to be a spectacular quiz. Grant Mayer got Inclined to Dispute on the board first, soon followed by Owen Parker of We Know. Grant scored again, immediately followed by Owen. Berrien 1 then got the next three scores, one a freebie, to move from last to first. After question 15, the score was 40–50–40.

We Know made a strong move with consecutive scores by Owen and Curtis Parker, putting all kinds of pressure on the other two teams. Now one of them would need to score two of the remaining three questions. They tried on 18 and 18A but came up short, and Owen picked up the freebie. The score was now 30–40–90, eliminating Inclined to Dispute.

But Berrien 1 would not give up. After scoring on 19 to pull within 30, they brought in a substitute, who got the jump and the answer on question 20 for a team bonus that pulled Berrien into a tie. Owen proved up to the task of winning the tie-breaker to advance We Know into the Finals.

Could the Finals be any more of a nail-biter? After question 8, the score was 30–20–20. But then the next four scores were all We Know as Owen picked up three to quiz out and Curtis added one. After question 13, the score was 30-20-100.

Berrien 2 surged to pull within 40, but then fell out of contention. Next, QUACK surged and pulled within 20 going into the last question.

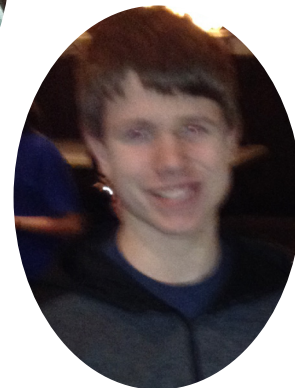

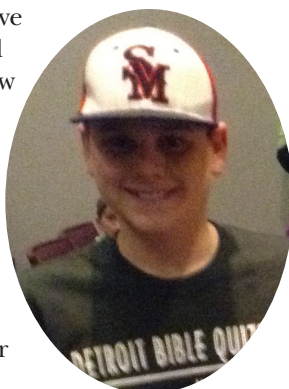

They had multiple ways to get a bonus for the win, not just a tie, which meant We Know could not sit back but needed to be jumping too. An error for We Know led to a toss-up won by QUACK for the championship on question 20A.

QUACK–90, Mixed Nuts 2–40, We Know–80
